

SIGCOM Acquires Access Logic, Inc.

Greensboro, NC – December 20, 2006 – SIGCOM Inc. a leading systems integrator specializing in Visual Communications and Physical Security Solutions announces today the acquisition of Access Logic, Inc, a company based in Denver, Colorado providing security and life safety maintenance services to the Government.

As a woman-owned, small business, Access Logic upholds an excellent reputation, strong relationships with customers, and strong financial performance. The company specializes in supporting technical security installations, intrusion detection systems, access control systems, closed circuit surveillance, fire alarm and fire sprinkler systems, audio-visual systems, telecommunications systems, SMATV television systems, and other communication systems. The company's expertise lies in baseband, broadband, and fiber-optic system integration and maintenance needs of private enterprises and government agencies. With additional offices located in Jacksonville, Florida; Lathrop, California; Groton, Connecticut; and New Orleans, LA, Access Logic has established their presence in the market throughout the United States, thereby, greatly enhancing SIGCOM's efforts in the maintenance of security and life safety systems arena.

Access Logic brings several competitive advantages to SIGCOM including two NICET Certifications, Levels II and III, allowing engineering technicians to perform routine tasks related to fire alarm systems activities involving: system layout (plan preparation), system equipment selection, system installation, system acceptance testing, system trouble-shooting, system servicing, and system sales.

SIGCOM's new acquisition provides fire alarm maintenance, preventative maintenance, and inspection to systems including but not limited to Pyro, Notifier, and Gamewell. Access Logic also supplies sprinkler installation and inspection.

Joseph Corey, SIGCOM's Vice President of Business Development, says of the new acquisition, "We are excited about our new addition to the SIGCOM family. We will be able to further establish ourselves in different geographic regions based on the outstanding past performances of Access Logic." This merger will create new opportunities for both SIGCOM and Access Logic. SIGCOM will further market Access Logic's strengths as a security and life safety maintenance services company and cultivate more sales opportunities. Combining Access Logic's abilities and services with SIGCOM's force as a systems integrator to Government clients worldwide is a continued sign of growth.
